which you will see on every street and road and lane. Mattapoisett has a yearly competition and this is one in which everyone is a winner. Every year the town seems more beautiful at this time of the year. For the pictures on the cover and through the paper, we just drove through the town and took a few random shots. This is just a small sample of the many displays. We had little success in taking shots of colored lights with black and white film, so dozens of beautiful displays we passed by and leave them for you to discover as you ride. Plan to spend at least three hours and take the children with you.

ON THE COVER

Off Water Street in back of the StageCoach Apartments. Beautiful doorway and picture window framed with red brick. Floods light the home and the Christmas tree glitters in the window. Can be seen from Water Street directly at the top of the wharf.

Off Route 6 at North Street - Pleasant View Gift Shop. Mr. Henry Dunseith has won many previous competitions in past years with his displays. This Santa Claus is only part of the many decorations on the grounds. You will have to stop here and walk around in order to see everything. Children and adults both will love this beautifully constructed Christmas series.

ness meeting conducted by Carleton Vaughan, master. Mitten favors made by the members were delivered to shut-ins by Susan Bence and Catherine Alves. Transportation was provided by Mrs. John Denham, Jr.

A Christmas program was presented arranged by the lecturer, Catherine Alves. "O Christmas Tree" was sung in German by Joseph Alves and Janice Silva. Rebecca Day gave a reading, "A Pig's Christmas". A quartet, comprised of Edward Alves, Francis Kelley, Susan Silva and Catherine Alves, sang Christmas Carols. The Poem, "The Riding of the King", was recited by Susan Silva.

Santa Claus, Paul Morris, distributed gifts from a decorated tree. Cookies and punch were served by Doris Fearing, Stephen Kelley and Edward Alves.

The next meeting, January 13, will have a "Come and See What" program.

The department is able to run itself efficiently under $3,000 a year with the men who man the department determined to give the taxpayer over and beyond his dollar's worth.

During Hurricane Donna fire department personnel waited out the storm at the Fire Station, ready if needed, provided an emergency arose. After the hurricane many of department's men assisted the power company at night, providing needed lights by generators and cutting and removing fallen trees and branches. Many Rochester residents received power earlier than anticipated by the volunteer service of these men.

Daniel Lawrence Hartley is Fire Chief and Nathan Lawrence, assistant fire chief, with approximately 25 men on call in case of fire.

The Fire Station boasts a sign with gold and black lettering on the outside of the building - ROCHESTER FIRE DEPARTMENT. Left on the building is the original school belfry, which lends the Fire Station a bit of old Rochester, giving it dignity.
